Shakespeare (modernized) says, "What is (He) Cuba to us or we to (He) Cuba?" This is the question to be settled with some precision in view of the fact that Spain will probably call us to account for allowing a warlike expedition to leave New York in open day-light in aid of the Cubans. The news of the successful departure of the Arago with men, arms and munitions of war for the Cuban revolutionists will, of course, be received with exultation in England as affording a set-off to the Alabama business; but the question that concerns us more nearly is, how will Spain take it? Will the acquisition of Cuba be a paying in. vestment for us if it involves a war with Spain? Of course it is easy to say that the Spanish Government, with a bankrupt treasury and intestine quarrels, cannot afford to make war with us. But possibly she can afford war better than we. Her mode of warfare would probably be to send out privateers to sweep our commerce from the seas, and our retaliation could be but slight, as she has but little commerce to lose. We should get Cuba. but the question recurs whether it would be worth the heavy price.

It seems that Marshal Barlow, of New York, holds that it is not his business "to detain vessels sailing from that port without definite orders from Washington;" and some censure has been bestowed upon the President because of his failure to issue a proclamation of neutrality. But this censure is without proper foundation. Neutrality proclamations are issued purely as matter of courtesy to friendly Powers. There is no obligation of international law requiring their promulgation; and Spain, by her unfriendly course towards us during the rebeilion, has debarred herself from putting in any claim on the score of good-will. This is probably the position taken by President Grant: that we owe Spain no courtesies, and that, while maintaining the letter of our treaty obligations, there is no reason in the world why we should overstep them in behalf of Spain to the disadvantage of the patriot Cubans.

It is reported that the Arago is to land the expeditionary party at a small island off the Florida Keys, whence they will go over to Cuba in sailing vessels or large boats. It may be that our Government will feel it incumbent vance of the United States Marshal at New York; but unless in cases where our officials are palpably culpable it is not probable that the Administration will deem it their business

The Providence Journal has unearthed the act that Senator Sprague has been correcting the Congressional Directory, in order to write himself down a Democrat. In the Directory for the second session of the 40th Congress Mr. Sprague's record reads that he was elected to the United States Senate as a Republican. In the next publication of the same Directory being for the third session of the 40th Congress, [-circumstances in the meantime having aftered cases,"] by his express personal direction, this entry was altered to read that he was leaded to read that he was altered to read that he was REGISTRATION OF VOTERS.

Judges of Election of the city of Washington elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat. The Journal thinks the natural inference is that Mr. Sprague had bought his ticket and checked his baggage through for the Democratic party, but that it seems he finds that organization in so dilapidated a condition that it will be cheaper to start a new party than to attempt to galvanize a dead one, hence the statement that he and Pet Halstead are "arranging the details of a new party."

RAILROAD MATTERS IN BALTIMORE.-The First Branch of the Baltimore City Council yesterday again postponed the consideration of the ordinance granting the right of way through Baltimore to the Baltimore and Potomac railroad, and made it the special order for Tuesday afternoon next, with the understanding that there shall be no further delay. The City Commissioner has been instructed to examine the proposed route, what streets are to be tunnelled and what used upon the surface by the road, and what will be the damages and benefits to property on the line. The oppoments of the railroad submitted some remonstrances to the Council yesterday.

Mayor Banks and the members of the City Council, with invited guests, started on a tour of inspection over the Western Maryland railroad this morning, as far as Hagerstown, to satisfy themselves of the wisdom of farnishing a million of dollars to complete that work to Hagerstown and Williamsport.

It has been stated that Victor Hugo, for so long the assailant and bitter enemy of Napoleon and Napoleonic imperialism, had made his peace with the Emperor, and was about to return to Paris frem his exile. A passage in the last chapter of Hugo's story, "The Man Who Laughs," has a savage paragraph aimed at Louis Napoleon that precludes the idea of any such reconciliation between the stern old republican and the French autocrat. Hugo says: "The Englishman's love for his liberty is mixed up with a certain recognition of another man's servitude. This kindly feeling towards the chains that bind a neighbor is pushed sometimes even to enthusiasm on behalt of a despot close at hand." Hugo here gets a double shot at Napoleon, and at the English people

Indiana has got ashamed or tired of manufacturing divorces for the rest of the country, and has changed her law on that subject. It is required that persons filing applications for divorce shall have been bona fide residents of the state for one year preceding the filing of the application, and for ninety days bona fide residents of the county. The law also makes it a felony for any person to make false representation in procuring a divorce, prescribes confinement in the penitentiary as a penalty, and applies the operation of the act to any attorney who shall lend his assistance in procuring a divorce through fraudulent means.

The grand jury of the United States court at Cincinnati have found an indictment against Chris. Hogan and Miller, his associate detective, for causing a counterfeit tobacco stamp to be made. Chris. tried to break his fall by publishing a card, in which he spoke largely of the immense sums he had saved to Government by his labors of various kinds, and referred to a long list of gentlemen high in official station, but the dodge didn't seem to

The statement put in circulation a few days ago to the effect that Gen. Butler had been retained as counsel by Mr. Young, of the Tribune, in his libel suits against Mr. Dana and other stand that Gen. When the cases will come up for trial is quite uncertain.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

MR. EDITOR:-For the sake of an imposed upon community I hope you will have the plaint, so that every street car driver and every conductor, and every person, in fact, connect-ed with either line of street cars in this city may peruse and consider.
Lrivers or conductors. I am not able to say to whom the blame attaches -perhaps to both -have a way when they come to a street crossing have a way when they come to a street crossing where passengers are to be taken in or dropped, of stopping their car so that the after part stands oirectly across the walk, and while such a position of the car may perhaps accommodate a few persons who are either getting in or out, it certainly does at the same time greatly discommode many who happen to be crossing the street just at that moment. Now take it on rainy days, when the streets are full of mud, and you are crossing in a great hurry, without an umbrella. Just as you get about half way across, one of these lumbering street cars comes rolling along and deliberately stops within a foot of your nose, right across your within a foot of your nose, right across your path, and you have the choice of either waiting three or four minutes in the rain, thereby aying the foundation for a beautiful cold which in all probability will result in your de-parture from this world of sorrow and street cars, or of pulling up your dress or rolling up your pants, as the case may be, and wading out in the mire, thereby getting your feet soaking met, and boets extremely muddy. It is un-necessary for me to ask if this is right. It is plainly wrong; a downright imposition, an in-fringement upon the rights of pedestriaus, which calls loudly for reform, and I am only surprised that notice has not been taken of this before. Yours, respectfully. AGNES LEE.

BANKBUPTCY.—The last amendment of the Bankrupt Law provides that in all proceedings commenced after the first day of January. 1869, no discharge shall be granted to a debtor whose assets shall not be equal to fifty per centum of the claim. whose assets shall not be equal to fifty per centum of the claim proced against his estate, upon which he shall be liable as principal debtor. This clause does not, however, shut out from the benefit of the law all peor debtors, for it further provides that certain petitioners, and all who comply with certain conditions, can receive their discharges, though they may have no assets. Notwithstanding the provision, in view of its limitations and exceptions, debtors without assets are still applying for the benefit of the law in all parts of the country. Persons in this District who still wish to avail themselves of its bezefit, and who have no assets, should examine carefully whether they are included in the terms of the limitation.
